

CONTENT WARNING

This document contains the following:

Discussion of fictional and real predatory behavior, grooming, rape/noncon, age gap relationships, violent kinks/fetishes, exposing minors to pornography, power imbalances, gore/"guro", gaslighting, manipulative behavior, sexual harassment, cheating, suibaiting, generally sexual content, etc.

If any of these topics have a possibility of triggering you, proceed with extreme caution.

This is a callout documenting user @coilswife, a predatory proshipper and manipulative liar gaining popularity in the PHIGHTING! fandom, actively endangering children within the community.

Coil is a proud AO3 "author" who often writes dark, predatory themes into their works. These themes consist of rape, kidnapping, drugging, severe power imbalances, dubious consent, and other topics, mostly gone untagged in order to cover up the contents, which directly violates what most proshippers believe in—tagging accordingly.

Further in this document, Coil is also seen exposing much younger minors to this content, both directly and indirectly, with currently known victims ranging from 14 to 15. This is also a violation of what proshippers usually believe in—fiction only. Despite everything, Coil claims to be a "recovering proshipper", actively claiming they are an antishipper.

Further in this document is a response to Coil's response. If you are looking for that, scroll to the end.

Below are screenshots of some of their more taboo fanfiction, as well as explanations as to what the content contains. Keep these in mind.

Maybe that was all she was—his student, his best student, the one who excelled, the one who made him proud. She thrived on that praise, on being his favorite, on hearing him acknowledge that she was above the rest. And now? Now she was showing him exactly how much she worshipped him.

Her tutor inhaled sharply through his nose, the only sign of his waning composure. His hand trembled slightly as he dragged his red pen across the page, streaking ink where there should have been careful corrections. The ink smeared, a symbol of the chaos that had overtaken his carefully structured world.

It was delicious, the way he still fought it.

"Subspace..." His voice was low, taut—meant to scold, but there was no real bite behind it.

Here, Coil is writing fanfiction of Subspace and their higher-ups/superiors, even after it was mentioned that Subspace views their superiors like guardians, mentoring him since he was a child, + implied to have been groomed by said higher-ups, as well as writing it with a teacher/student dynamic, an abusive power imbalance, and misogynistic tropes. Less than a month has passed since these were written.

Whilst I have no biological family of my own, my superiors have been educating me for as long as I can remember!

Though I wouldn't go as far as to call them family, they have been the closest things to "guardians" that I have experienced.

I owe everything I know to them!
And who knows? Maybe one day I'll take their place Haha!

Merely jesting, I hold a lot of respect for them.

Coil has also written detailed gore fics, containing untagged yandere tropes—which is a BPD stereotype—and rape. Being forcefully tied up for sexual reasons is rape. Being drugged during sex is rape. Dubious consent is rape. Implying otherwise is a direct example of rape culture. Not even the usual proshipper would disagree.

Subspace giggled, the sound light and teasing, but laced with an edge that sent a prickle of unease through the air. The room was dim, suffused with the golden glow of countless candles, their flames flickering and casting long, distorted shadows on the ornate walls. Medkit

"Subspace," Medkit said, his voice rough and steady despite the circumstances.

Subspace kidnaps Medkit, for a little meal.

Subspace's sobs filled the cold, sterile air of the room, his back pressed against the unyielding wall as his trembling legs struggled to hold him upright. Medkit knelt before him, his suit immaculate save for the smear of blood at the corner of his mouth. His sharp teeth sank into the decaying flesh of Subspace's arm with unsettling precision, a macabre calmness in his single eye as he gnawed at the rotting tissue like it was the most natural act in the world.

"This arm is unsalvageable," Medkit murmured, his tone calm, clinical, as though discussing a routine procedure. "Decaying, festering... it would've killed you in days." His gloved fingers tightened their grip on Subspace's wrist, ignoring the flinch that followed. "But you'll survive now, won't you?"

This was indeed written by Coil, the fics being "written for an oomf", as well as other fics in the gore subcategory being linked to "ANON FICS", a category confirmed to be owned by Coil.

Medkit awoke, his head swimming in a thick haze. It felt as though his thoughts were caught in molasses, tired and uncooperative. He groaned softly, his body oddly heavy, as if it had been weighed down with lead.

A sharp scent lingered in the air—chemical, medicinal. He knew it all too well. “Drugged,” he muttered under his breath, his voice hoarse. The realization brought a new edge to his focus. He was a doctor, after all. If anyone could deduce his condition, it was him. But even with that knowledge, he couldn’t fight the creeping fog dulling his sharp mind.

Then, as if to confirm his worst suspicions, an obnoxious, unmistakable giggle rang out, piercing the silence like nails on glass.

Attached is a strawpage link, which links to Coil's main strawpage. The "Proship DNI" in the link is noted, but why would you write things like dubcon, noncon/rape, teacher x student, and detailed gore porn if you claim to be repulsed by proshipping? Many of these fanfics were written in 2025.

As for 2024, in late December, Coil had publicly spoken to a Twitter user by the name of Mochi, who was 14 at the time. Coil's age at this moment is unknown, ~~as I can't really be bothered to check their birthday~~; however, whether or not Coil was 16 or 17 at the time, this is still an inappropriate maturity gap, and Mochi seemed uncomfortable with the interaction, replying with dry, vague responses at the end. This was a completely unprompted and violating action, and mental illness is no excuse. The conversation can be found below.

IM DIDKNT MEAN KIT....ill write u...subspace...stupid... have a sneakpeak

Her laugh rang out, sharp and obnoxious. It was the kind of laugh that demanded attention and made every word that followed worse. "Oh, Meddy," she cooed, dragging out his name like a razor slowly peeling at his patience. "You always underestimate me. There's always a plan. I don't do pointless." She leaned closer, her voice rising in a mockery of enthusiasm. "This one, though? You're gonna love it. It's got drama, stakes... and, oh yeah, pain. Lots of it."

Medkit's jaw tightened as he tugged subtly at the restraints binding his wrists. Of course, she'd thought of everything. She always did, not because she was careful, but because she was annoyingly obsessed with making him suffer.

He heard the scrape of a chair being dragged across the floor. Subspace plopped down into it with the kind of exaggerated flair that made him roll his eye even in his groggy state.

"Ugh, you're so boring," she groaned, her voice rising like she was complaining about bad service at a restaurant. "All work, no fun—typical Medkit. It's honestly pathetic how seriously you take yourself. Do you even know what a good time looks like? No, don't answer that. I already know—you don't." She snorted. "You're lucky you've got me to shake things up. You should be thanking me, really."

"Thanking you?" Medkit hissed, his eye narrowing despite the fog clouding his vision. "You drugged me, tied me up, and now you're wasting my time with this nonsense. Forgive me if I'm not falling over myself with gratitude."

"God, you're such a drag," she whined, kicking her feet against the floor like a petulant child. "Do you ever do anything that isn't scowling or being a wet blanket? No? Thought so."

Rising to her feet with a dramatic huff, she stalked toward him, and Medkit's stomach churned at the sound of her heels clicking against the floor. With one sharp tug, she yanked the blindfold from his face, and the dim light stung his eye.

As his vision adjusted, he was met with the sight of her smirking face, all teeth and arrogance. Subspace stood before him, dressed in nothing but a strapless bodysuit and stockings. The outfit left little to the imagination, her flat chest on full display with a confidence that made it clear she wasn't interested in his opinion.

"What the hell are you wearing?" he asked flatly, his tone laced with disdain.

"Like it?" she replied, doing a mocking little spin. "Thought I'd keep it simple. No distractions, no excuses—just me, you, and the games."

He gave her a long, pointed glare. "You call this justice?"

Medkit awoke, his head swimming in a thick haze. It felt as though his thoughts were caught in molasses, sluggish and uncooperative. He groaned softly, his body oddly heavy, as if it had been weighed down with lead.

Something was wrong—terribly wrong. This wasn't his bed, and it certainly wasn't the sanctified halls of the Church of the TRUE EYE. He tried to move his hands, but they wouldn't budge, tightly secured by something unforgiving. His attempt to see his surroundings proved futile; his vision was swallowed by darkness, courtesy of a blindfold that draped across his eyes.

A sharp scent lingered in the air—chemical, medicinal. He knew it all too well. "Drugged," he muttered under his breath, his voice hoarse. The realization brought a new edge to his focus. He was a doctor, after all. If anyone could deduce his condition, it was him. But even with that knowledge, he couldn't fight the creeping fog dulling his sharp mind.

Then, as if to confirm his worst suspicions, an obnoxious, unmistakable giggle rang out, piercing the silence like nails on glass.

Medkit's head throbbed, the faint taste of something bitter lingering on his tongue. His thoughts were sluggish, his usually sharp mind clouded by whatever Subspace had used to drug him. It was infuriating. He didn't have time for this—he had duties at the church.

"Meddy! Did you miss me?!"

"No, absolutely not," he shot back flatly, his voice dripping with disgust despite the haze.

"Oh, that's a shame," Subspace cooed, her tone mockingly saccharine. "Always caught up with work... You never leave time for lil' ol' me."

This was not the last time, and probably not the first time, an incident like this had occurred. An unnamed 15-year-old reached out to an author of this document, sharing their own experience with Coil. The anonymous individual had asked for fanfiction to read. They had told Coil that NSFW fanfiction was okay, but can minors consent to adults or older minors? No. 15 and 17 is an immoral maturity gap between individuals with no established boundaries.

Despite the obvious carelessness towards dubious consent, Coil claimed to have debunked the allegations of proshipping. This document did not cover their own fanfiction—only the fanfiction they had bookmarked. This document was very obviously not truthful or genuine, telling by the replies of a person they had written rape fanfiction for. They continue to write dark fiction and share it with minors.

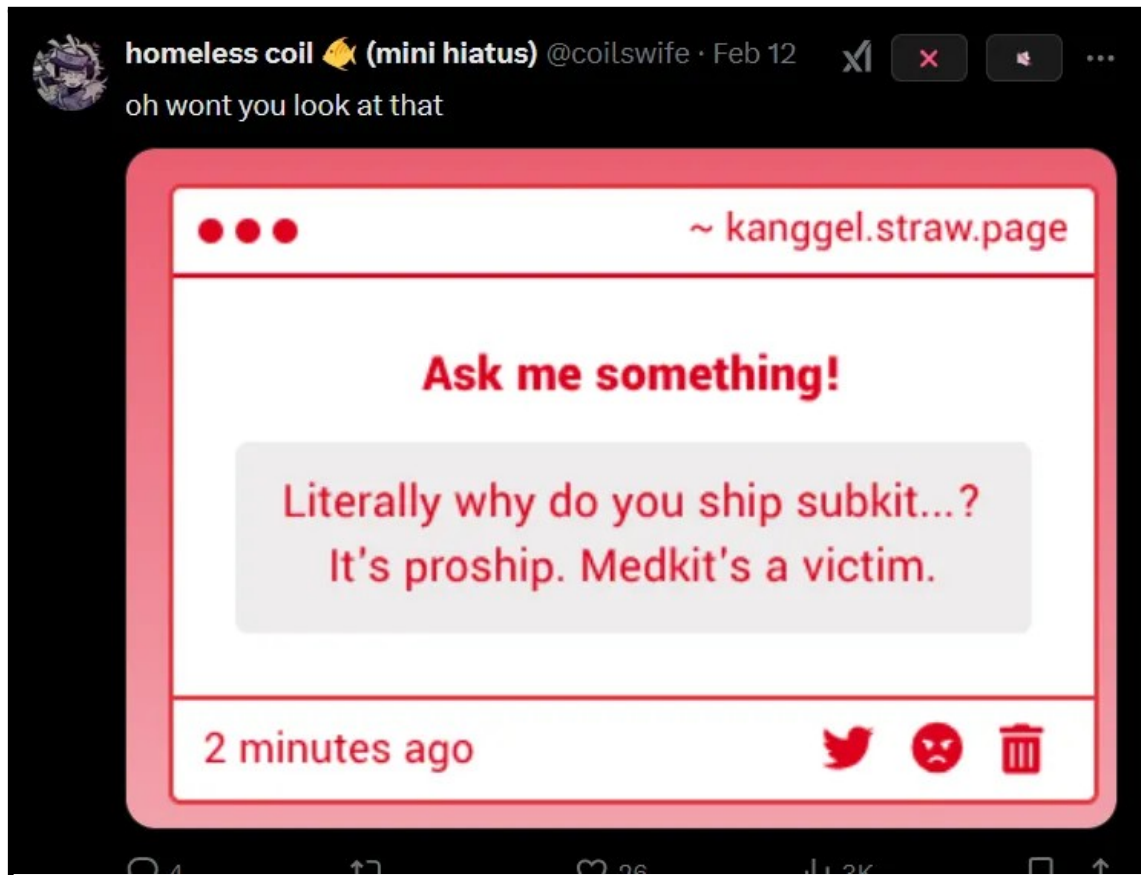

Despite having a large following consisting of minors 13-17, Coil also publicly posted fanfictions that consisted of "guro", aka gore porn, dubious consent, and more rape. Screenshots of this series can be found earlier in the document, titled "gore stuff". The other link is a link to their other dark and light fanfiction, also screenshotted earlier in the document.

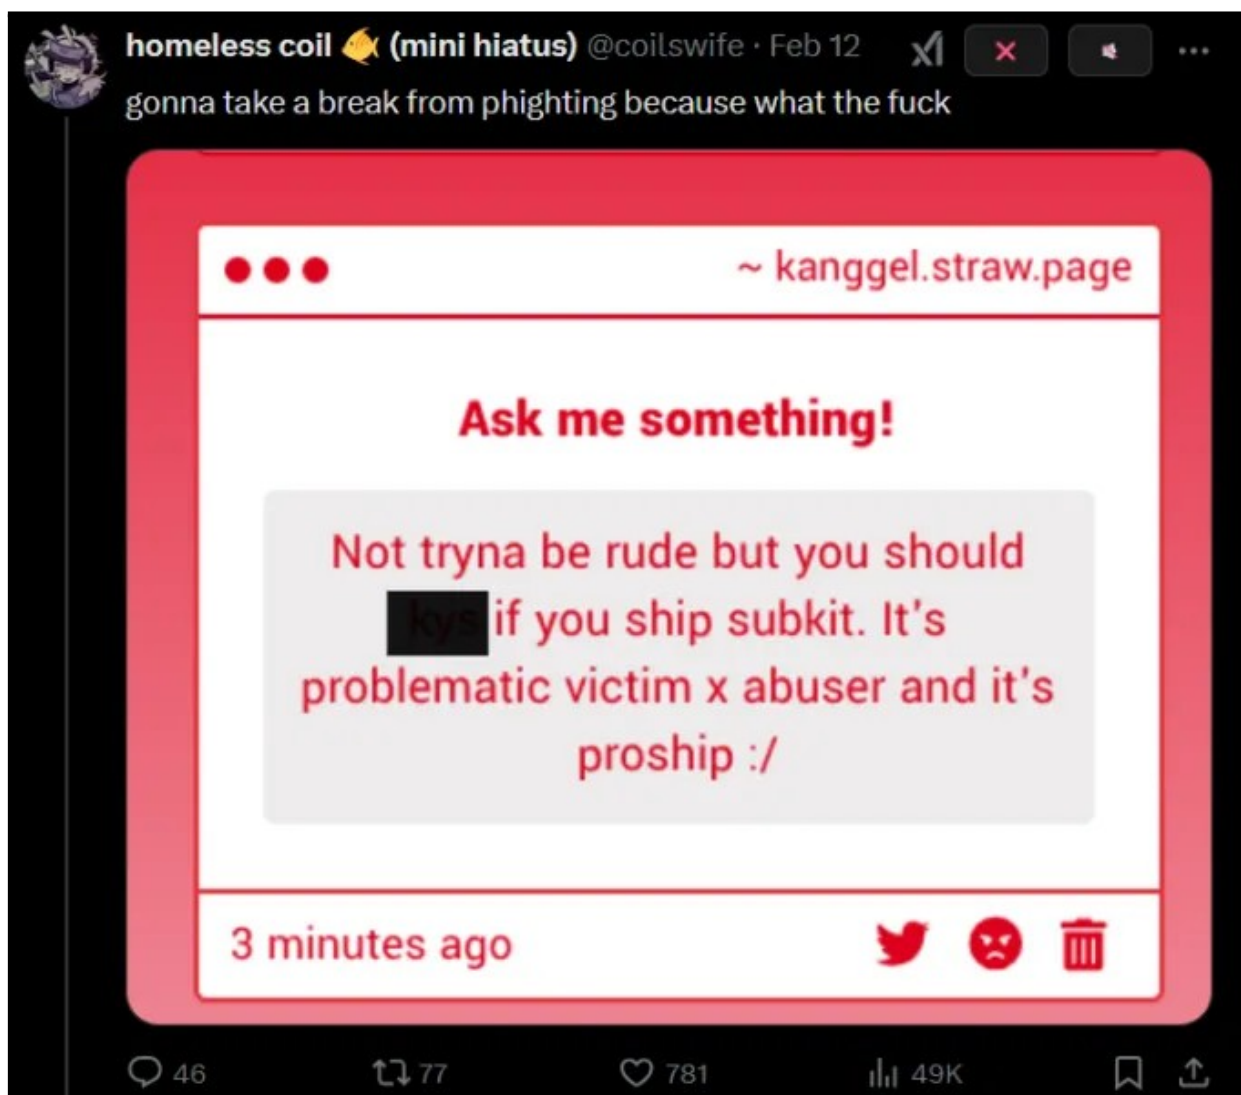

Individuals around Coil (supposedly) began to notice Coil's problematic fanfiction and actions. What you see ahead is speculation with proof—the authors of this document would never victim blame another if there was no reason to.

On February 12th, 2025, Coil received this anonymous ask.

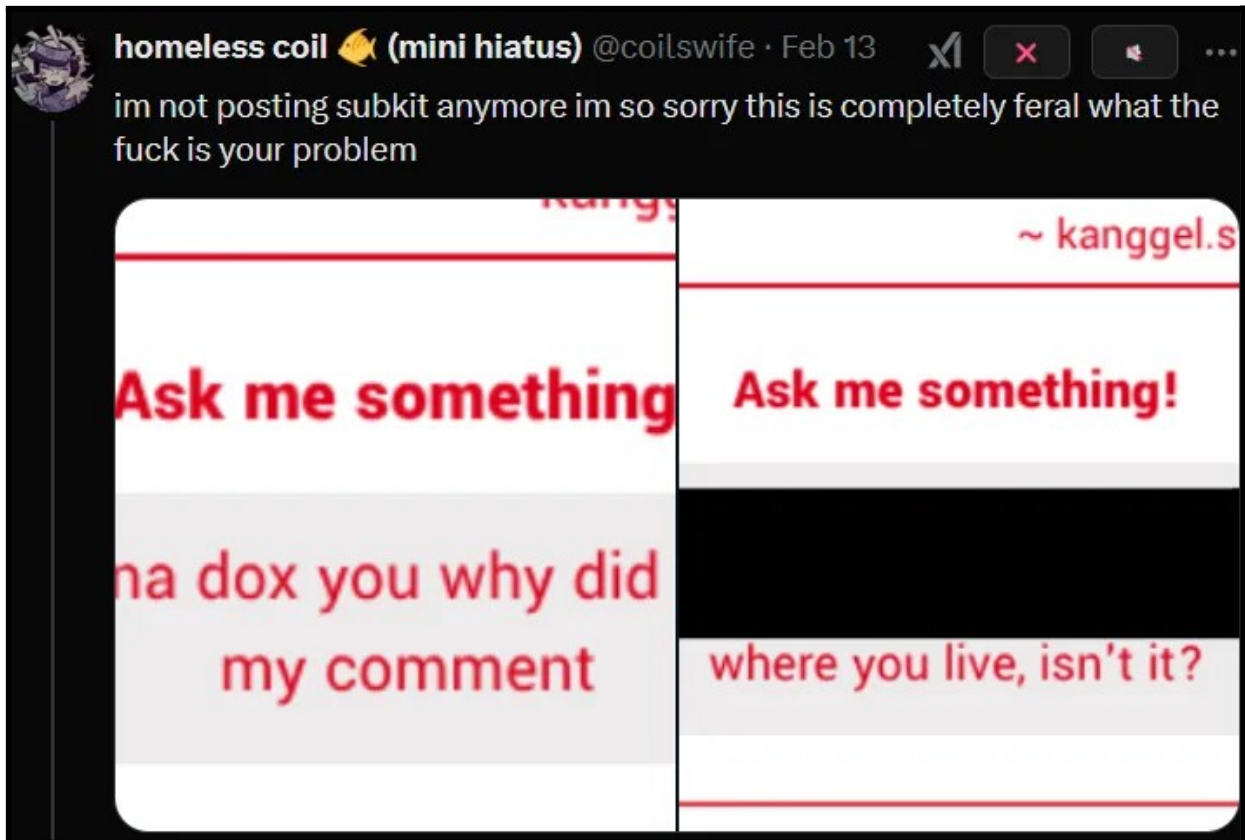

The typing style and accusation are almost comically suspicious. Clearly something satire, or poorly faked. And Coil has reason to fake. Coil had never posted asks like this beforehand, nor had she posted them so quickly after receiving them.

Coil's former strawpage asks would sit for a while, ranging from hours to days. There is very little chance they checked their strawpage minutes after these asks were sent.

This is, once again, comically suspicious. This is not something that an actual person would say, in my opinion, and it's also notable that Coil's alleged abuser does not type like this.

The asks soon devolved into the typing style of the abuser in question. There's very little chance that this timing was coincidental. Why would Coil's abuser use subkit hate as an excuse? That is not something a rapist does.

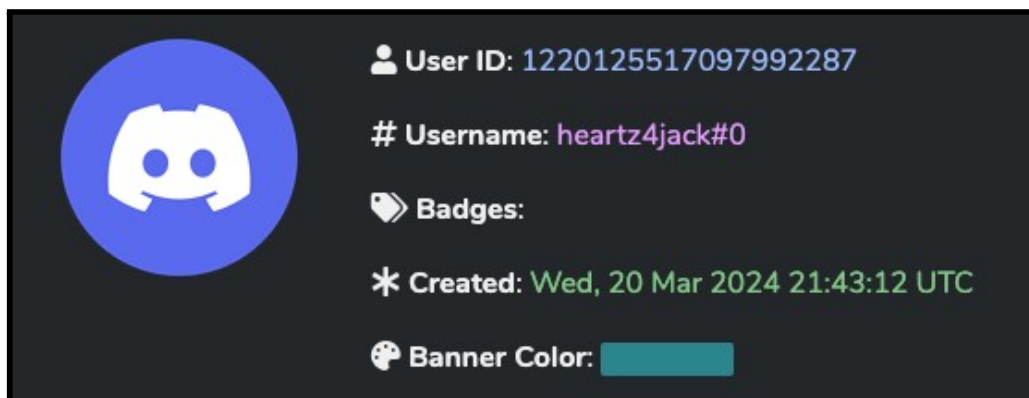

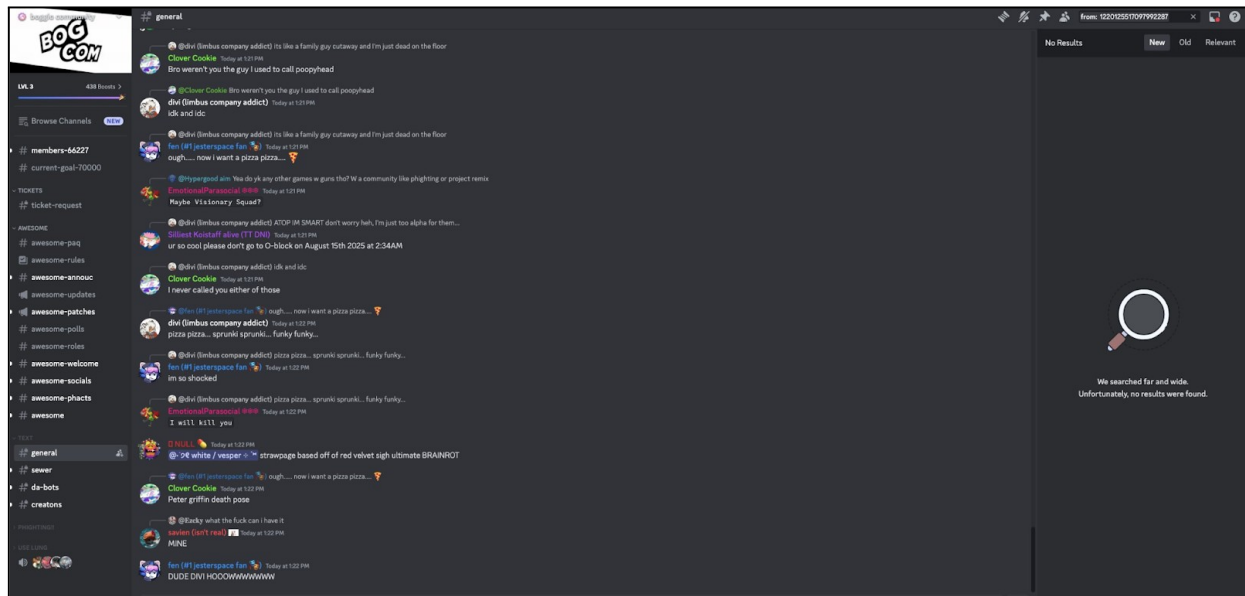

It is also notable that the timestamps are cropped out. There's no reason to crop that out, unless you're hiding something. And Coil certainly was—they were hiding their predatory behavior.

The alleged abuser later “confessed” to being the one behind all of the asks. The typing styles don't add up, nor does the motivation behind the assault. Subkit wouldn't be the reason; the reason would be lust.

Despite being a supposed Phighting fan, as well as being against subkit, Jack has never been, nor spoken, in bogcom. Jack's account is completely undecorated, despite being almost a year old.

These flaws in Coil's story were pointed out by another user by the name of coilswifeburner. This user was harassed by people before they had even begun to read the document, despite being obviously open-minded. Burner had simply requested accessible and non-identifiable proof of the assault. Coil didn't oblige, for seemingly no reason, and had instead threatened to publicly post images of their cuts. This is not appropriate in the slightest.

4. Requests for Coil.

In hopes that Coil can prove his innocence, I have a few simple requests on the next page for things he can show that would clear up these holes I have pointed out here.

1. Screen recording of the original diary document from your main google account

Show the date, and also show the version history, proving that it was actually the real document on the date of creation. You may feel free to censor any part where it may show your email address.

Version history button

Button to show date created

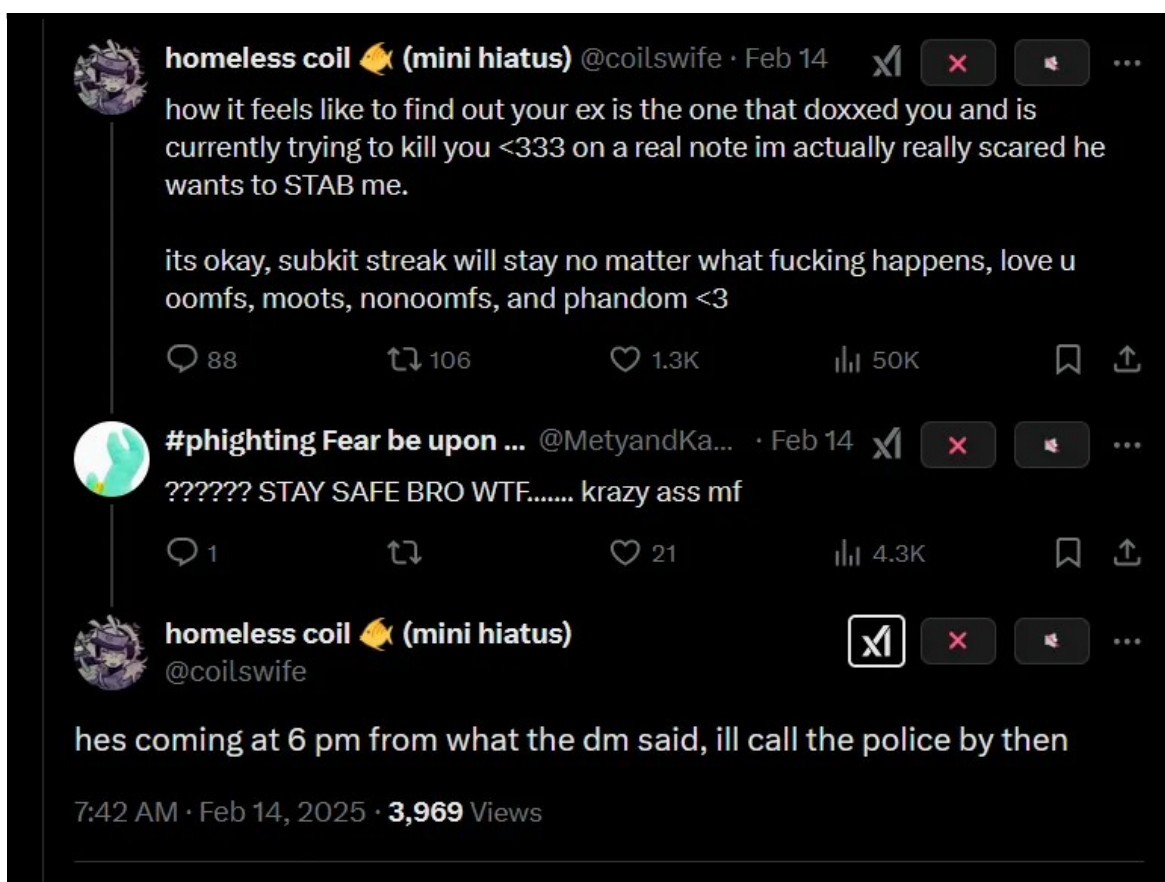

2. Evidence of your discord messages with your ex partner.

Show a screen recording of the message that says he was coming at 6, and show a screenshot of the account's creation date. You may censor the username if you wish.

Right now there is just so much more evidence pointing to Coil lying, and not enough that any of this actually happened. Please show this document to Coil, I do hope that they can prove themselves as innocent, as I'd like to believe they aren't a horrible person who would go and lie about all of this.

Again, many parts of Coil's story are comically satire, almost constantly talking about subkit "out of spite", finishing commissions, and being active, despite the fact they should be recovering. If Coil's abuser had allegedly assaulted and held a knife to Coil, there would be wounds to recover from. If Coil was allegedly hospitalized due to a suicide attempt, they would legally not be allowed to leave in under 24 hours. If Coil did a pregnancy test and rape kit, they'd be offline at the time, waiting for results and calming down. If Coil was raped, they would not be happily active.

A few days later, Coil was finally called out on their continued predatory behavior. In response to this, Coil admitted to sending pornography to “friends” who are “consenting” to following and seeing such content. Minors can’t consent, especially not hypersexual minors; that much should be obvious.

They also claim that minors cannot be predators, a blatant lie to make themselves look innocent. Coil is almost an adult.

they just start talking about it, plus I wouldn't be comfortable going there if I know they don't like NSFW. my ao3 is in my reentry for people who WANT it. why are you circling out just the NSFW? I've written more fluff than that. people have boundaries and I respect them.

“My content is only for the minors who want it. Fluff cancels it out.”

This is an admission to grooming.

Coil also claims that due to their own hypersexuality, they cannot prey on other hypersexual minors. Hypersexuality is not an excuse to break the law.

After Coil's "response", posting went on like usual, including "suggestive" posts that are just blatant NSFW, including replies towards users with no age on their profile. Coil still has much younger followers, and is aware of this. Coil has also recently made suggestive comments about Subspace being a shorter character than Medkit, and telling by their history, this is more than just a "height" difference to them.

Elandiem @Elandiemmm · 17h

From my and my friends research we have found out that the devs forgot to set Subspace's height properly and his remodel is exactly a size of a one walnut.

homeless coil 🐟 (mini hiatus)

hope they keep it that way...hshsshort sub

As of today, Coil went on another “hiatus”, despite immediately returning during their past ones. This hiatus was due to something not in this document. We’ve been requested not to share such information, and we suggest doing your own research.

This will likely not be the end of the document. Unless Coil decides to log off for a while and actually improve, Coil has repeatedly proven that they have no intention to change their behavior.

Coil's currently known socials are his Twitter, main strawpage, "anonymous" AO3 strawpage, Roblox, and their AO3.

The end of this document was made under a lot of stress and rush. Updates are to be expected.

Coil made a very short response to this document, lying and victim-blaming. It first starts off by saying Twitter user @biocarvved made the whole thing. He was only a contributor.

This is my doc, addressing some parts of what Biocarved has said about me.

He then admits he's interacted with 14-year-olds sexually and still says they consented to interacting with their pornographic work. Once again, this shouldn't need to be said, but minors cannot consent.

To start, I am half ao3 author and half artist. I write sfw/nsfw fics. I've been accused lately of sending inappropriate content to minors, accused of still proshipping and etc. I am going off hiatus to reply to this. The doc Biocarved was shown from a friend of mine.

First of all, reading my reentry, I have made it clear that I do NOT interact with audiences under the age of 14. Also, reading the BYI, it says if they don't want an ao3 author as their friend they are advised to not indulge and to get away.

Coil then claims that the only dark fanfiction they had published was one fanfiction. This is a lie, proved earlier in this document.

Biocarved stated that I 'often' write dark predatory themes. To make this clear, I have written one single fic, that is extreme dub con. I tagged it as an extreme dub con.

The fic I'm talking about is named, "ANGEL BREAKING" This has a warning in the author notes, plus I have tagged this right. It's dubious consent because he said himself he would do anything. Continuing on, I described him as desperate. Quoting that he was 'desperate for more'

Coil also says non-consensual bondage isn't rape and treats the dead dove tag like a warning.

Dead dove is not a catchall warning; non-consensual bondage is a non-consensual sexual activity, and there was intercourse in the fanfiction. It is rape, more accurately molestation.

Thinking otherwise is still rape culture.

Next, the gore.

In the fic,

There are also warnings. "Dead dove: do not eat"

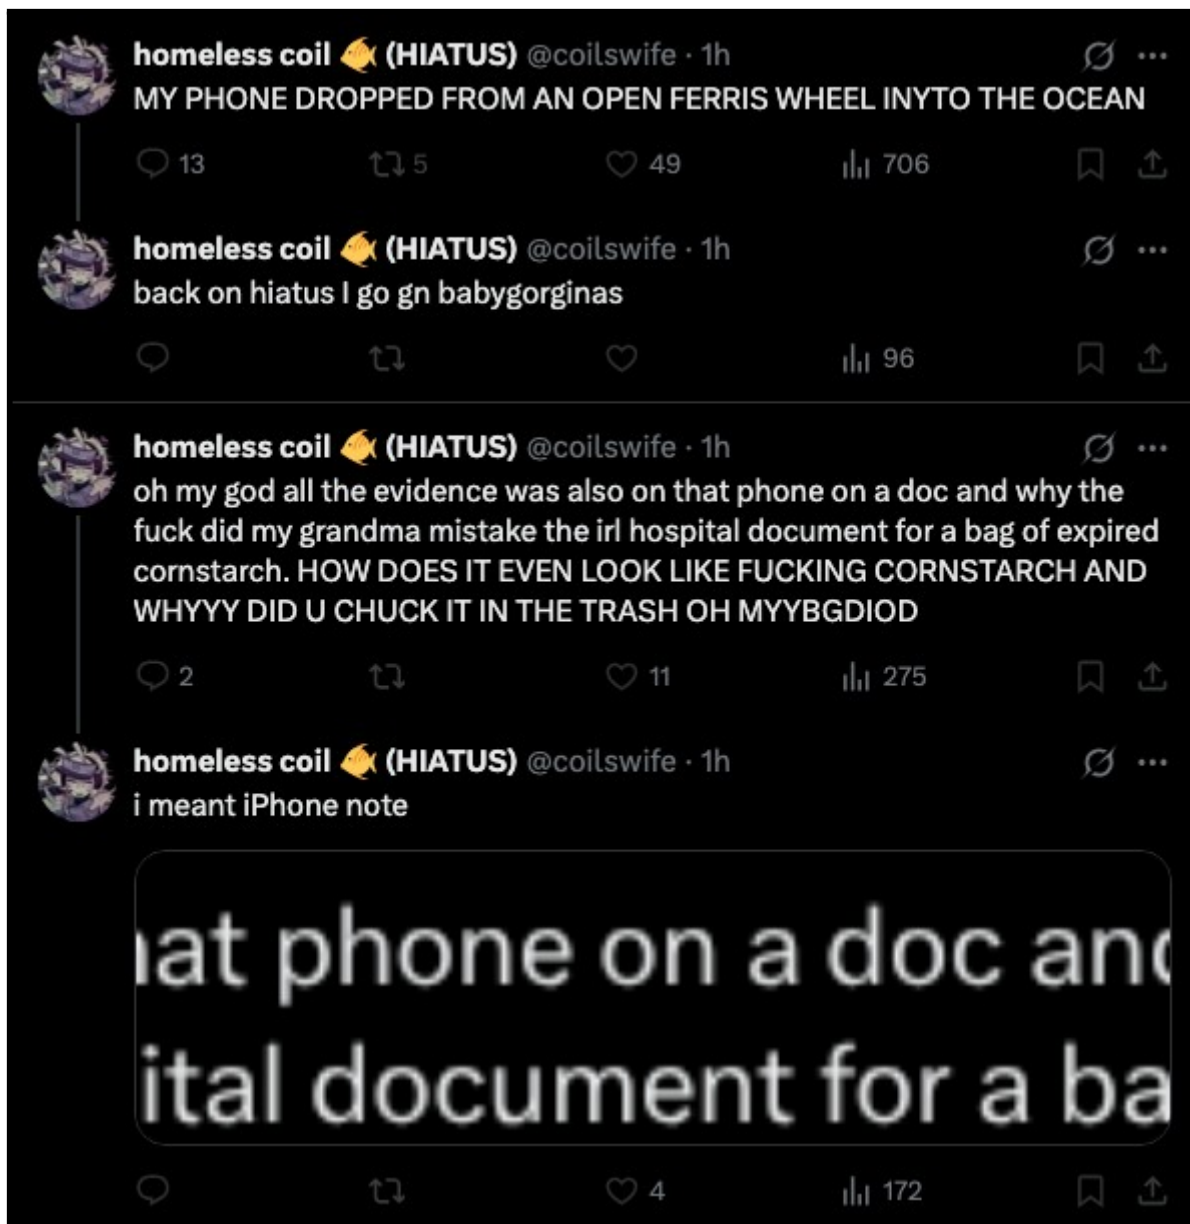

Is a term for telling the readers that the work is unpleasant or contains something unpleasant and that they have been warned.

Have a bite has NO sex in it, it is not rape at all.

None of the gore fics have rape at all, sure there is non-consensual bondage but there is no rape.

This series of anonymous fanfiction by Coil was last updated on February 14, only about a week ago at the time of writing this part of the document. None of the problematic fics as of right now are deleted; if you changed and don't condone problematic tropes, why wouldn't you delete those fics to show your change in views?

After being requested in the replies to show proof of the abuse to "silence" the callout, this happened. Multiple things are wrong with this. For starters, cornstarch doesn't expire. iPhones save everything on the cloud, the evidence requested from Coil consisted of things you can see on all devices, and if you were on a ferris wheel, you wouldn't see where it had dropped. If this was real, this is an extreme safety hazard.

Coil later deleted the last 2 tweets, likely realizing the flaws.

what they've shared with me, due to it being actually disgusting,
But first, I want to share my first initial thoughts, of what he did to me, as a person, and how he hurt me.

These initial tweets were by me, and im going to give proof of his suibaiting, and his cheating.

This continued for multiple hours, mind you i was at my little brothers game, and trying to have a good day, this however, ruined that, now, i'd like to share what they said to me, about the strawpage incident, and about biocarvved.

Incident in question: he basically sent a super detailed drawing to bios strawpage, not joking btw.

to me, this felt extremely violating. this is nothing but sexual harassment. this was a choice coil made, hypersexuality is not an excuse to stalk me.

This is them lying abt this, to me, before they finally confessed the truth

This, is gross, i can understand hypersexuality, but why would you impulsively do this, when your FRIENDS said it was a horrible idea, you claim ur on hiatus but every day u come off hiatus, JUST STOP GOING ON HIATUS, OR QUIT THE INTERNET, seriously coil, this is extremely unethical, my closing thoughts are, you betrayed me, you used me, and worst of all, you actually convinced me you loved me, Closing thought-written by Hardcarkeys, ty for letting me share my experience.
