

Hello all. This is a formal response to the allegations put out against me. As you may know, I've been called out for grooming. I'm here to say that the screenshots you may have seen are real and even with the context applied, it's still terrible. I'm so extremely sorry to Jimmy for everything I've done. Whether you want to believe it or not (you absolutely don't have to), I was genuinely just very excited that someone would yumeship with my OC. I provided content of said OC, some of which were suggestive. And I'm so sorry for doing that. I genuinely thought I was doing nothing wrong.

I don't usually open up to strangers online about this, but I feel it's an important explanation giving the situation at hand. None of this is an excuse. Just reasoning as to why I thought what I was doing was alright.

I myself am a victim of grooming, having been groomed by the same man for almost three years straight, from age 16 to nearly 19. I met him within the Friday Night Funkin' community when he was supposedly 17 (I'm not sure if that was his real age or not), and he was immediately extremely sexual with everything he did (You can see proof of this on my old account, @_ticklefuck). He constantly showed me nsfw without my consent, showed me nsfw of minors, showed me feral nsfw of My Little Pony characters, drew feral nsfw of My Little Pony characters, and even went as far as to draw feral nsfw of me and him as ponies. He had also done the same I had done to Jimmy, constantly sexualizing my and his own OCs and showing it all to me unprompted. When I even had a smidge of attraction to one of his OCs, he would do what I did. He even manipulated me into a two year long romantic relationship.

For the longest time, I thought only the feral nsfw of the ponies was the grooming part. I thought everything else was normal and completely fine. Since being called out for my behavior over a month ago, I've since realized that it was not normal. Nothing that was done to me nor Jimmy was normal in any way shape or form. I thought as long as I didn't show flat out nsfw like he did, it was completely okay to share. I now see I was extremely wrong.

After getting out of that relationship, I should not have continued posting online immediately. I should've taken time to myself to heal from such long lasting trauma. But I foolishly didn't. And I am horrified of the idea that I may have accidentally done this to others as well. I really, really hope I didn't. This is the only case I know of. This is why I've been on an indefinite hiatus- I've been trying to heal from my own grooming experience and learning from my own mistakes. I absolutely hate myself for what I've done, and it's been eating me alive the entire time I've been gone. I've realized so many things about myself and my own experience with being groomed, and it makes me physically sick that I would turn out to do the same as him without even realizing it. I really should have known, considering that I am 19 years old, but I truly, honestly didn't. I've lost everyone and everything dear to me because of this, and I absolutely deserve it all.

I'm going back offline for the time being. I don't know when or if I'll be back. Thank you for taking the time to read this. I appreciate your willingness to hear both sides of the situation. Again, I am so extremely sorry for everything I've done. I hope you can find it in your heart to forgive me, but I completely understand if you don't. I encourage you to support Jimmy's accounts and artwork. Hopefully someday I might be back, fully healed and fully grown from my mistakes. I can assure you this will never, ever happen again. I'm so, so sorry.

Goodbye everyone.