

Hi. My name is Void. I want to keep this brief and to the point. Warning, this document contains discussion of heavily NSFW topics. Read at your own discretion.

NOTE: This document was written a day after Rox was fired. My stance on Qwel's knowledge of the events has changed, and I no longer believe she was ignorant of Rox's actions in light of new evidence.

I was a personal friend of Rox for 2 years, and have been a close friend of Qwel for 4 years. I got in contact with Rox originally because me and a friend of mine named Blowminds conducted an investigation on him after the incident in Pixelbit occurred in June of 2021. After a while, me and Blowminds were able to enter a call with him in March of 2022. Later on, in June of 2022 I rekindled my friendship with Qwel and began having regular VCs with Qwel and Rox, usually consisting of just playing ARK or other Roblox games. Here's our group DM from the time when we first began chatting.

I was apprehensive about this at first, but Rox reassured me he changed at that time. He told me he changed, that he knew his past actions were wrong, and that he was doing his best. Over time, as I got closer to Rox I genuinely began believing him. I sincerely thought that Rox was honest with me, that he was truthful in his words and he told me what happened as it happened.

When Blowminds and I got in that confrontation with him in March, we explicitly asked him if there was anything else he did we should know about. He said there wasn't.

In 2023, Xtriel would post a document featuring information about someone Rox called "Buddy." He never revealed to me who this person was, and I presume now with the info I have it was probably so I couldn't reach out and get their side of the story in its entirety. Rox assured me that the situation with Buddy was a one time thing, and when I asked why he never brought this up with me, he told me he "forgot." This should have been a major red flag and should have been the catalyst to end my friendship there, but at this point I've known Rox for a year and a half. I wanted to see the good in him, so once again I believed in him. I even helped him make a response video as he'd forward the entire script to me to have me review. Contrary to what some say online, I did NOT write/edit/whatever this video. I will post this here for you to read in your own time.

When accusations of Rox drawing CP were revealed on July 7th by Gary, I was totally dumbfounded, and I staunchly believed Gary fabricated this claim at the time to get back at Rox and BCS as a whole for removing him from the server/game. I even managed to acquire the images Gary claimed were CP, which consisted of Gary's avatar kissing another person's avatar. I thought it was an open and shut case, and Rox reassured me he never created CP of Gary. What he told me, was that he "might" have created an image of "two stick figures vaguely having sex." I figured once again that Rox was being honest with me and I publicly defended him against this claim, telling as many people as I could that the CP claim had no basis in reality. Here he is saying something similar below.

i make the claim that i remember it being two avatars kissing and then a vague stick figure sex thing cause its been so long

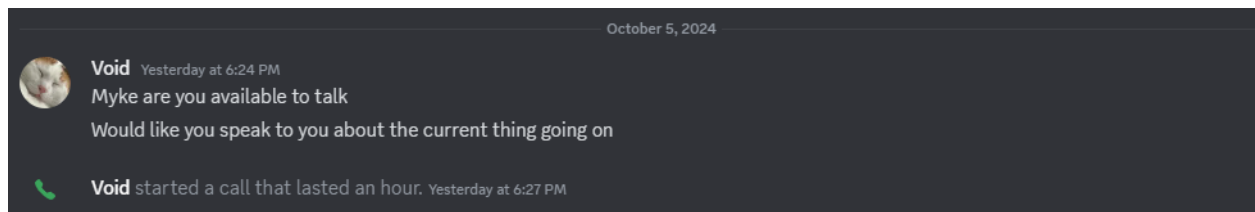

On October 5th 2024 I received an image from an anonymous source depicting Gary and another individual having sex. This other individual was the same person featured in the kissing images mentioned prior. This image was graphic and appalling, and I hope I never have to see this image again. This image was not “vague stick figures”, this image explicitly depicted sexual activity between minors. I realized, at that moment, that I have been played for a total fool. I cannot show this image as it is literal CP, but rest assured it is 100% real and was the cause for everything happening moving forward.

That day, I immediately confronted Rox as soon as I was able in a voice chat, and his excuse to me was “I forgot it was that graphic.” Just like with Buddy, Rox conveniently just “forgot” about him drawing actual child porn of real people. The people depicted were 14 and 15 years old, and Rox was 18 when he drew it. I only ever defended him against this claim because I sincerely thought it wasn’t real, and I made a total ass of myself in the process because of his lies and deceitful behavior. Below is when I started the call.

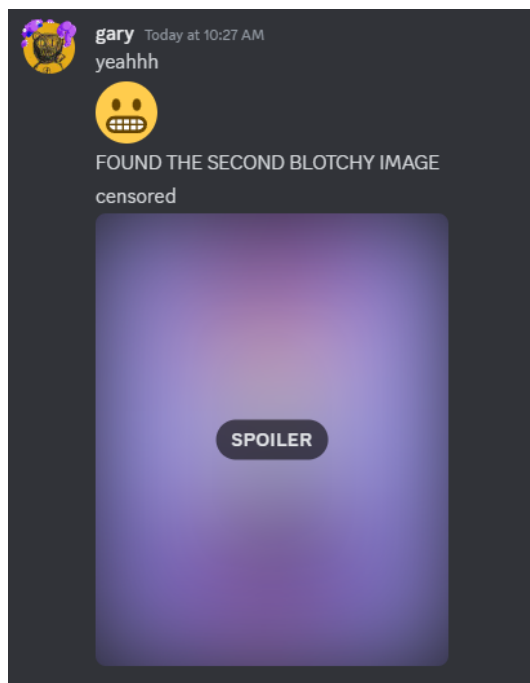

We shortly moved the call into another GC we were in.

Shortly before this call, I contacted Gary to sincerely apologize for not believing him from the beginning, and to tell him what was going on behind closed doors.

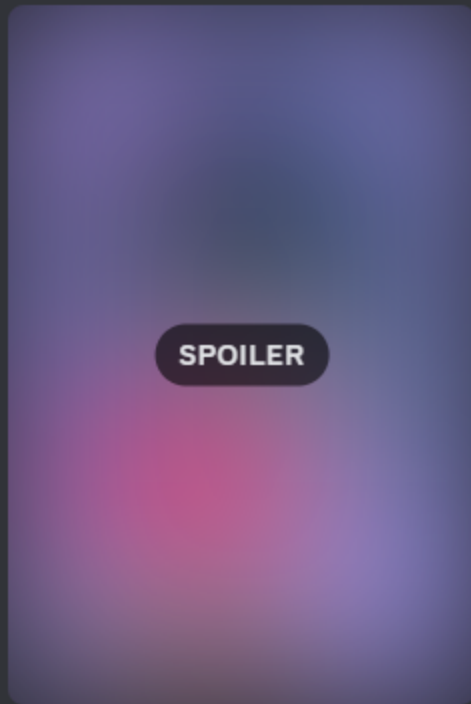

And only a day later, Gary revealed to me that there was another instance of Rox drawing the character Blotchy from Tower Heroes. Originally, I was only ever aware of one instance of him drawing this character, and he told me over the years it was his worst mistake he made, and he only did it once, ect. Blotchy was depicted as a minor engaging in sexual activity in this first image. But Gary showed me with receipts he did this MULTIPLE times, and with ANOTHER child character. Rox never, ever, made me aware he did this in the two+ years we knew each other. As far as I know, Gary and the others involved did not know this stuff existed either, so it was new for everyone involved.

gary Today at 10:31 AM
and maitake aswell (censored)

yikes

Maitake is a CHILD.

Another bonus fact, is that in this original infamous image, the person he is talking to and sent the image to was a 15 year old girl at the time. He was only a few days away from turning 18.

Jakers 04/10/2021

you act like you weren't the inspiration for this drawing

most of them were boredom drawings anyway lmao and only because they were essentially prompted if it really is such a big deal as u make it out to be i just won't draw it again

Jakers 04/10/2021

i've just had too much experience with bitches leaking my shit to get back at me somehow maybe im just scared someone could really take that child porn thing way out of context and it could be the fuckin end for me again may just be me being paranoid

Rox lied to me for years on end about what happened. He kept information away from me, was not transparent in the slightest, and used me for months to help build a case for him to defend him from these accusations. He manipulated me in the most blatant way imaginable. I lost many friends defending him, and will probably forever be known in some circles as a “pedophile defender” due to him twisting the narrative and compelling me to defend his actions. I am disgusted with myself and feel like such an idiot for ever taking his side, and for ever defending him.

Due to Rox primarily using voice chat on Discord as a means of communication, I don’t have as many receipts as I’d like. But as someone who has defended him, I can hope you can see my word as being truthful. I would never post something like this unless Rox did something truly despicable, and violating my trust and being dishonest for 2 years straight fits that bill. Please be aware that Qwel was not aware of any of this either, and this entire thing was the catalyst that finally got Rox removed from the staff team, and he will never be allowed to rejoin again.

I genuinely believed in Rox when he told me that his past decisions were just him being a stupid teen making mistakes, and that he changed and evolved as a person. But does someone who lies to their close friends about their actions strike you as someone who has changed? It doesn't to me. While I was played for a fool, I completely take ownership of what I've done in this situation and I am truly sorry for not realizing this sooner, and believe me when I say that sentiment is the same for everyone who works at BlushCrunch.

I want to say here, for anyone I knew that I hurt in the process of all this, for all the people I did not believe, I am so incredibly sorry. I don't know how to make it up to you all, I fucked up big time by allowing this person to manipulate me and play me like a fiddle.
